| Think and Feel | Pains: High platform fees, lack of visibility for new freelancers, delayed or unclear payments, no support in resolving disputes. Gains: A trusted platform that matches the right freelancers with clients, provides easy payments and fair terms, highlights skills, and offers a community for growth and support. |
| Hear           | They are frustrated when they don't hear back from clients, feel anxious about income stability, and are overwhelmed by the competition on existing platforms.                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Say            | "I want a platform that actually gets me clients regularly.""I'm tired of competing with 50 people for one job.""I need to showcase my work easily."                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Do             | They regularly update their profiles and portfolios, check job listings multiple times a day, apply for gigs frequently, and communicate with potential clients.                                                                                                                                                                                  |
